SAFECO INSURANCE COMPANY OF AMERICA	:	DECISION
for Redetermination of a Deficiency or	:
for Refund of Franchise Tax on Insurance	:
Corporations under Article 33 of the Tax	:
Law for the Year 1976.	:

Petitioner, Safeco Insurance Company of America, Safeco Plaza, Seattle, Washington 98185, filed a petition for redetermination of a deficiency or for refund of franchise tax on insurance corporations under Article 33 of the Tax Law for the year 1976 (File No. 29105).

In a letter dated September 23, 1980, petitioner, by its assistant secretary S. C. Strandberg, waived a formal hearing and consented to submission of this matter to the State Tax Commission on the file as presently constituted.

ISSUE

Whether petitioner is entitled to a 1976 New York net operating loss deduction, based on net operating losses sustained in 1974 and 1975.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. On November 15, 1979 and December 21, 1979, respectively, the Audit Division issued to petitioner, Safeco Insurance Company of America ("Safeco"), a Statement of Audit Adjustment and a Notice of Deficiency, asserting additional franchise taxes due under Article 33 for the year 1976 in the amount $48,892.00, plus interest thereon. The Division explained the basis for the deficiency, as follows:

"A New York net operating loss deduction is presumably the same as that allowed by the federal. Since no net operating loss deduction was taken on the federal return, no net operating loss deduction is allowed for New York State tax purposes."

2. Safeco timely filed a Franchise Tax Return for Insurance Corporations for 1976, in which it availed itself of a net operating loss deduction in the amount $18,829,880.00, resulting from the carryforward of losses incurred in 1974 and 1975.

3. For Federal income tax purposes, the losses sustained by petitioner in 1974 and 1975 were carried back to 1971, then to 1972. There was no loss carryforward to 1976.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A. That for taxable years commencing before January 1, 1974, insurance corporations such as petitioner were subject to the tax imposed by section 187 of Article 9 of the Tax Law. The tax was measured by the insurance corporation's premiums written on risks located or resident in this state.

B. That for taxable years commencing on or after January 1, 1974, insurance corporations are subject to two franchise taxes imposed by Article 33 of the Tax Law.

Section 1501 imposes a franchise tax similar to that which is imposed on business corporations by Article 9-A. Pursuant to section 1502, this tax is calculated on one of four alternative bases, the first being the taxpayer's entire net income or the portion thereof allocated to New York.

In addition, section 1510 imposes a tax, similar to that imposed by former section 187, measured by the taxpayer's premiums.

C. That section 1503 sets forth the rules by which entire net income is calculated. A net operating loss deduction is permitted by paragraph 4 of subdivision b, as follows:

"Any 'net operating loss deduction'...allowable under section[] one hundred seventy-two...of the internal revenue code...which is allowable to the taxpayer for federal income tax purposes:

(A) shall be adjusted to reflect the modifications required by the other paragraphs of this subdivision;

(B) shall not, however, exceed any such deduction allowable to the taxpayer for the taxable year for federal income tax purposes; and

(C) shall not include any such loss incurred in a taxable year beginning prior to January first, nineteen hundred seventy-four or during any taxable year in which the taxpayer was not subject to the tax imposed under section fifteen hundred one."

D. That section 1503(b)(4) of Article 33 and section 208.9(f) of Article 9-A, which allow the corporate taxpayer subject to taxation under said respective articles a net operating loss deduction, are substantially similar and are to be construed in a like manner.

"The provisions in article thirty-three of the tax law, which article is added by section one of this act, shall be construed so that the provisions of such article which are the same as or are substantially identical with those in article nine-a of the tax law shall be regarded as being in pari materia and shall be construed in a like manner." L. 1974, Ch. 649, section 12.

E. That the allowance, by the aforementioned statutes, of net operating loss carryback and carryforward is intended to conform New York practices with Federal practices, and to assist new businesses and those with fluctuating incomes. See Telmar Communications Corp. v. Procaccino, 48 A.D.2d 189 (3d Dept. 1975); American Can Co. v. State Tax Commission, 37 A.D.2d 649 (3d Dept. 1971); Governor's Memorandum, N.Y.S. Legislative Annual 1961, 461; Dept. of Taxation and Finance Memorandum to the Governor, S. Int. No. 2842, Pr. No. 4441, April 6, 1961 (L. 1961, Ch. 713 Bill Jacket).

F. That it has been the long-standing, consistent policy of the Tax Commission to confine the amount of the New York net operating loss deduction to that amount actually absorbed for Federal purposes in the taxable year in question. Section 3.12(d), Ruling of the State Tax Comm., March 14, 1962; 20 NYCRR 3-8.2(d) (eff. January 1, 1976); Matter of Telmar Communications Corp., State Tax Comm., June 20, 1974; Matter of Savin Business Machines Corp., State Tax Comm., March 24, 1970; Matter of Hi-Lo Food Centers, Inc., State Tax Comm., March 9, 1970; Matter of Spedcor Electronics Inc., State Tax

Comm., March 9, 1970; Matter of Vision Associates, Inc., State Tax Comm., March 9, 1970.

Similarly, Article 22 of the Tax Law makes available to the individual taxpayer a net operating loss deduction, not to exceed the deduction allowed for Federal income tax purposes in the same year. Matter of James H. and Margaret L. Sheils, State Tax Comm., October 3, 1977, rev'd sub nom. Sheils v. State Tax Comm., 72 A.D.2d 896, rev'd, __N.Y.2d__ (February, 1981). See also Gurney v. Tully, 67 A.D.2d 303, rev'd, 51 N.Y.2d 818 (1980).

G. That other jurisdictions, which utilize Federal corporate income as a base for taxation and which permit carryback and/or carryforward of net operating losses, have articulated policies, promulgated regulations and rendered decisions similarly limiting the state net operating loss deduction to that actually taken by the taxpayer in that year for Federal purposes. See, e.g., Fla. Stat. Section 220.13(b)(1)(c).

In its interpretation of section 44-11-11(b) of the Rhode Island General Laws,¹ that state's taxing authority held that where the Federal net operating loss deduction for 1975 was carried back and used up in 1972, 1973 and 1974 and there was consequently no carryforward to 1976 or thereafter, there would likewise be no carryforward for state purposes although, by statute, the state net operating loss deduction could not be utilized against Rhode Island 1972, 1973 or 1974 taxable income. R.I. Tax Rep. (CCH) ¶10-558, Bulletin, November 6, 1974.

The Delaware State Tax Board determined that net operating losses incurred subsequent to January 1, 1958 (thereby qualifying for deduction under the applicable statute) were not deductible on state corporate returns if they had been exhausted by carrybacks to pre-1958 years on Federal returns. Del. Tax Rep. (CCH) ¶10-710.51, Docket Nos. 238, 239; July 27, 1962.

H. That more recently, the Supreme Court of Illinois has affirmed a decision of the Appellate Court which held that a net operating loss is deductible for state income tax purposes only in the same manner and amount as is deducted on the taxpayer's Federal return for that year. The taxpayer's net operating loss was reflected only on its state income tax return after computation of its Federal taxable income on a separate return basis; because it filed a consolidated Federal return with its subsidiary, no net operating loss appeared thereon. The taxpayer was not entitled to carry back to 1969 and 1970 a 1971 net operating loss, inasmuch as such loss was completely absorbed when applied against 1968 Federal taxable income; this was so, even though there existed no state income tax act in 1968 and consequently, none of the net operating loss could be absorbed in that year. Bodine Electric Co. v. Allphin, 2 Ill. Tax Rep. (CCH) ¶201-052, aff'd, 410 N.E.2d 828 (1980).

I. That the United States Supreme Court, in its examination of the Congressional intent underlying section 172 of the Internal Revenue Code, found that "waste" of the loss deduction was indeed tolerated under certain circumstances; timing accidents might occur which "rob" a taxpayer of the fullest benefit of the deduction.

"Congress may, of course, be lavish or miserly in remedying perceived inequities in the tax structure. While there is no doubt that Congress through the loss carryover provisions did intend to reduce the arbitrariness inherent in a taxing system based on annual accounting, the history of the loss offset provision does not support the respondent's vision of a Congress seeking perfection in the realization of its objective." United States v. Foster Lumber Co., Inc., 429 U.S. 32, 43-44 (1976).

The Court held that both capital gain and ordinary income must be included in the taxable income offset by the loss deduction before any loss excess might be carried forward, notwithstanding that the full benefit of the loss deduction was not reflected in reduced tax liability: for the year to which the loss was carried back, the taxpayer had used the alternative tax computation method, and its ordinary income was less than the loss deduction.

J. That Article 33 contains a significant feature specifically designed to ease the burden of retaliatory taxation by other states: a retaliatory tax credit. Section 1511(c). Dept. of Taxation and Finance Memorandum to the Governor, A. Int. No. 12272, May 30, 1974 (L. 1974, Ch. 649 Bill Jacket).

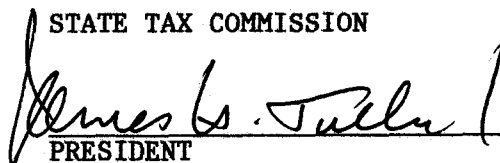

K. That, in accordance with section 1503 of the Tax Law and section 172 of the Internal Revenue Code, the net operating losses sustained by petitioner in 1974 and 1975 must be carried back to 1971 and 1972 before they may be carried forward to 1976 and thereafter. There can be no carryforward of a net operating loss to a year in which there was no Federal net operating loss carryforward stemming from the same loss.

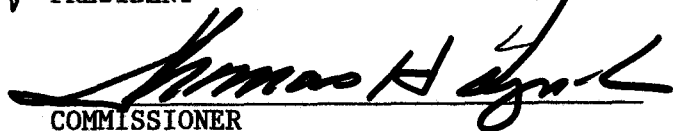

L. That the petition of Safeco Insurance Company of America is hereby denied, and the Notice of Deficiency issued December 21, 1979 is sustained in full.
